1	Lucy Johns	Thank you. This entire enterprise is supposed to benefit consumer patients, ultimately, and their care and their health status. Um, could you tell us who has the responsibility to let consumer patients of California know that this is barreling down the track and how it will affect them and why it's a good idea and what their privileges are – Whether IAS is an anticipated use case. Whether they can opt out, and so-forth. Just generally, if I were to go out in the street here in my neighborhood, I would bet that nobody on my street would know anything about this. So, how is publicity or marketing or whatever the term is that you prefer – how is that going to work for the people of California to learn about all of this. Thank you.
